Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 25 March 2005.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to Applicant's RCE, filed on 03/25/2005.
2. Claims 1-37 are cancelled and claims 38-67 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 38-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kleiman (U.S. Pat. No. 5,959,945) in view of Looney et al (U.S. Pat. No. 5,969,283).

As per claims 38-63 Kleiman substantially discloses the claimed system for distributing music to local electronic jukeboxes see., abstract, lines 1 and 2 (which is readable as Applicant's claimed invention wherein said a system for distributing music to customer households), comprising:

A data transmission system configured to blanket transmit a plurality of music content items to at least one remote consumer location in digital form (see., abstract, lines 5-9);

A user station for placement at least one consumer location, the user station comprising a preselection mechanism configured to enable a consumer to preselect from the blanket transmission of a plurality of music content items specific music content items for storage at the at least one consumer location; and a selection mechanism configured to enable said consumer to select for playback any one of the preselected music content items that are stored at the at least one consumer location (see., abstract, lines 9-14, col 4, lines 21-31, col 6, lines 22-40, fig 1, its);

Means for said system to pre-select specific music content items for temporary storage (or download the music) see., abstract, lines 9-17, col 4, lines 21-31, col 6, lines 22-40, fig 1);

Billing system associated with the central controller system to bill customer households for selected music content items that have been recorded (see., col 5, lines 16-28). Kleiman fails to explicitly disclose that his central controller is for verifying when a preselected music selection has been recorded at the at least one consumer location. However, Looney discloses a music organizer and entertainment center wherein a CD-ROM and/or individual songs can include a special code or identification that is keyed to the user's system's code. In this manner only the user's system can load the songs on its hard drive, see., Looney, col 2, lines 51-54. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art the time the invention was made to modify the music distribution of Kleiman by including the membership customer taught by Looney because this would provide the music distribution of Kleiman with the advantage of having an individual (ID or verification) for customers, the customer can have a library of music to playback in a variety of portable and fixed base units.

As per claims 64-67 Kleiman substantially discloses the claimed apparatus for distributing music to local electronic jukeboxes see., abstract, lines 1 and 2 (which is readable as Applicant's claimed invention wherein said a system for distributing music to customer households), comprising:

A data transmission system configured to blanket transmit a plurality of music content items to at least one remote consumer location in digital form (see., abstract, lines 5-9);

A user station for placement at least one consumer location, the user station comprising a preselection mechanism configured to enable a consumer to preselect from the blanket transmission of a plurality of music content items specific music content items for storage at the at least one consumer location; and a selection mechanism configured to enable said consumer to select for playback any one of the preselected music content items that are stored at the at least one consumer location (see., abstract, lines 9-14, col 4, lines 21-31, col 6, lines 22-40, fig 1, its);

Means for said system to pre-select specific music content items for temporary storage (or download the music) see., abstract, lines 9-17, col 4, lines 21-31, col 6, lines 22-40, fig 1);

Billing system associated with the central controller system to bill customer households for selected music content items that have been recorded (see., col 5, lines 16-28). Kleiman fails to explicitly disclose that his central controller is for verifying when a preselected music selection has been recorded at the at least one consumer location. However, Looney discloses a music organizer and entertainment center wherein a CD-

In this manner only the user's system can load the songs on its hard drive, see., Looney, col 2, lines 51-54. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art the time the invention was made to modify the music distribution of Kleiman by including the membership customer taught by Looney because this would provide the music distribution of Kleiman with the advantage of having an individual (ID or verification) for customers, the customer can have a library of music to playback in a variety of portable and fixed base units.

RESPONSE TO ARGUMENTS

5. Applicant's arguments filed on 3/25/2005 have been fully considered but they are moot in view of new ground (s) of rejection.

Conclusion

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Pierre E. Elisca whose telephone number is 703 305-3987. The examiner can normally be reached on 6:30 to 5:00.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, James Trammell can be reached on 703 305-9769. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 703-872-9306.
